Principal's Message

our senior year was one in which the great history of our times was being made. It was the year when we launched a national war against poverty, the year when the right of men to dissent from the views of the majority was being seriously tested, the year when we established a system of medical care for the aged, the year when two space-craft were able to rendezvous far beyond the surface of the earth.

It was a time when men were living in moments of great difficulty but even greater hope. It was a time which should have made young people realize that we are a long way from perfection and that we need their courage, their youth, their abilities, and their optimism to forge a better place for all of us to be.

As you complete your high school life, your teachers hope and pray that they have taught you some basic ideas—and that you are in thorough agreement with them. We hope that you realize that man must never stop learning; that you will continue to pursue your education; that you look at the future with optimism rather than despair; that you recognize and respect the dignity and worth of every human being; that you hunger for a world at peace; that you are dedicated to serving others as well as yourself; that you recognize and carry out your responsibilities to your country and your family; that you realize that every generation must do its share to make our nation a better one in a freer world; and that you as an individual have important contributions to make.

All of us wish you a wonderful "Bon Voyage!"

Happiness Is:

- discovering that your teacher has given the same exam for fifteen years.
- a bomb scare.
- June 22nd.
- a teachers' strike.
- applying to Harvard as your fallback school.
- a substitute teacher.
- a blizzard on a Sunday night.
- getting the car.
- beating Hillside.
- the Junior class picnic.
- getting your driver's license.
- T.G.I.F.
- a night without homework.
- getting laryngitis on the day your unfinished oral report is due.
- the day after exams.
- walking up a down staircase without being caught.
- educational films when you haven't done your homework.
- an assembly schedule.
- Christmas vacation.
- taking a test that has already been given twice that day.
- opening your locker on the first try.
- being the first one on the lunch line.
- being a member of the class of 1966.

Misery Is:

- passing your teacher's room and watching him flip coins as he marks your test.
- the fourth lap of a mile-run.
- the first, second, and third laps of a mile-run.
- entangling your fingers among the typewriter keys during a timing.
- the odor from the gym locker rooms at 2:25 P.M.
- meeting a cute boy and discovering that he is a freshman.
- being a senior girl and discovering there are no older boys in the school.
- losing a contact lens in Untermann Field.
- having an open book test and bringing the wrong book.
- three Sweet Sixteens in one day.
- cleaning out your locker.
- a fire drill while you are changing in gym.
- being typecast as a witch in Macbeth.
- becoming a chauffeur for your friends after getting your license.
- having no room for your name on the desk because all the space has already been used.
- an extended homeroom when all your books are in your locker.
- first period on Monday.
- tests in all your majors in one day.
- washing your gym suit and socks, polishing your sneakers, and then getting marked off for dirty shoe laces.
- discovering that your gym teacher is an ex-wrestler.
- leaving your hop or prom bids in school on Friday.
- Legend deadlines.
